Vale Peñaranda is a Bolivian singer-songwriter, producer, arranger, and sound engineer based in Miami, FL. Known for her authenticity and versatility, her music blends Latin rock, soul, and R&B with a bold female narrative.

Vale's voice has reached stages across Latin America and the U.S. She has performed at prestigious festivals including Suena Caracas—sharing the stage with Café Tacuba and Cultura Profética—the Latin American VIVE Festival and the International Folk Festival at the Berklee Performance Center, and Bolivia's celebrated Festijazz and Festiblues. She is also recognized for arranging and directing live ensembles with strings and full bands, showcasing her strength as both performer and producer.

A graduate and scholarship recipient of Berklee College of Music and the Frost School of Music, she studied under Grammy-winning mentors like Carlos Rafael Rivera and participated in masterclasses with icons including Natalia Lafourcade, India Arie, Victor Wooten, and Beyoncé's Suga Mamas.

In 2022, she won Best Music Video at the Bolivian Awards "Eduardo Abaroa" with her single Renacer, and was named one of ten global recipients of the Leading Ladies of Entertainment mentorship by the Latin GRAMMY Cultural Foundation.

Vale's songwriting and production credits include artists across Latin pop, EDM, indie, and jazz, such as GRAMMY-winning producer Tainy, Spanish artist Bita, Domino Saints (Latin pop duo with millions of streams), Ioannes Francis (EDM Dj and Producer), Carolina Calvache (jazz composer), and more.

Her album, Renacer (2024), is a striking fusion of retro rock, pop, and soul, narrating themes of rebirth and female empowerment through her personal journey.
